Eastern grad student plunges to his death

by Patty Behrens and Marc Pacatte

Eastern graduate student and Charleston resident Robert S. Smith, 26, jumped or fell to his death Monday in Eastern's Science Building.

Smith, 26, of Rural Route 4, fell 42 feet from a fourth floor stairwell, landing in the northwest corner of the building. He was pronounced dead on arrival at 11:35 a.m. at Sarah Bush Lincoln Health Center, Coles County Deputy Coroner Darrell King said.

King said because Coroner Dick Lynch is currently out of town, an inquest into the death will be held "at a later date."

Smith graduated from Eastern in 1976 with a bachelor's degree in psychology and was an undeclared major in graduate work. His father, P. Scott Smith, is a faculty member of the physics department at Eastern.

A psychology department faculty member, whose office is located in the building, reported hearing Smith fall.

It was also reported that another faculty member in the building notified the Campus Security Police, who then called in paramedics from the Charleston Fire Department.

Bill Devers and Tom Daugherty, paramedics who treated Smith on the scene of the accident, were unavailable for comment.

Smith is survived by his parents, P. Scott and Catharine Thomas; one brother, Charles; and one sister, Karen, all of Charleston. Also surviving is the maternal grandmother, Emma Thomas, of Corvallis, Ore.

Visitation will be held after 5:30 p.m. Tuesday at Caudill-King Funeral Home in Charleston.

Graveside services will be at 4 p.m. Wednesday at Roselawn Cemetery.

A memorial service will be held at 7 p.m. Wednesday at Charleston's Wesley United Methodist Church. Memorials can be made to the Robert Scott Smith Memorial Fund.

Hostage rescue dispute provokes Vance resignation

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of State Cyrus R. Vance, apparently kept in the dark about a decisive White House meeting, resigned Monday in a public clash with President Carter about the aborted hostage rescue mission in Iran.

An administration official who requested anonymity told The Associated Press that Vance had no idea Carter intended to consult with other key advisers about the rescue operation at a National Security Council meeting on Friday, April 11.

Vance was on a brief Florida vacation. He returned after the weekend and registered his dissent at a second council session April 15. By then, according to this account, Carter had virtually decided to approve the operation.

Vance quietly submitted his resignation to Carter last Monday, before the rescue attempt failed in an Iranian desert Thursday night because of equipment failures and other mishaps. Eight American commandos were killed in an air collision and their bodies were left behind.

Sources said Vance was so upset by the decision that he would have left even had it succeeded.

The administration official said the Defense Department planned the operation with almost no margin for error. To succeed, he said, everything had to go right.

The White House released an exchange of hand-written letters between Carter and Vance that barely touched on the disagreement. Still, it was an extraordinary disclosure of differences between a president and one of his principal advisers.

Carter, visiting wounded rescue mission survivors at an Air Force hospital in Texas, was asked by reporters whether Vance's resignation would harm negotiations with Iran. "His departure did not have any adverse effect on the rescue of American hostages, nor will it in the future," the president replied. He called Vance "a fine and dedicated man" who had served the nation well.

Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, Carter's rival for the Democratic presidential nomination, said he respected Vance above the president's other foreign policy advisers, and Kennedy added that "obviously he knows far more about the failed military mission in Iran and its possible consequences than we do."

He said Vance's resignation makes a Senate Foreign Relations Committee investigation of the rescue operation "more urgent" because "the nation needs to know all the relative facts about the episode that led the secretary of state to take the extraordinary step of resigning in protest."

Jody Powell, the White House press secretary, said Carter "expressed his inclination to move forward with the rescue operation" at the NSC meeting April 11.

Before the operation was undertaken, Powell said, Vance had several "extensive conversations" with the president and voiced his objections.

Asked why Vance had not been called back from Florida for the initial discussion, Powell replied that his return would have attracted notice and jeopardized the secrecy of the operation.

Powell later said when Vance returned to Washington, "he was given every opportunity to make his case, and the president simply wasn't persuaded."

The press secretary said "the president knew that whether it was successful or not, it (the operation) would cost him a secretary of state, and he did not view that lightly."

Petition signatures collected to reduce House members

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (AP) — A statewide citizens group went over the top Monday in collecting the minimum 252,000 petition signatures in its drive to ask voters if they want to trim the size of the Illinois house by one-third, the group's head said.

Meanwhile, the House itself is set to vote Tuesday on a proposed constitutional amendment that would radically alter the way the General Assembly has operated for more than 100 years.

Both efforts are hailed as "reform" by sponsors. And both face grueling uphill battles before they can be put on November's general election ballot, where voters would decide whether the Legislature needs reforming, and, if so, just how to accomplish it.

Among other things, the House proposal by Rep. Sam Vinson, R-Clin-ton, would double House members' terms to four years and bar legislators from serving more than two consecutive terms.

It also would limit the number of days the Legislature is in session each year, require the governor to submit two-year, instead of annual, budgets and make it tougher to attach amendments to bills.

Vinson's proposal must be approved by Sunday in the General Assembly if it is to appear on the ballot this fall. The state Constitution is strict about how proposed amendments can be put on the election ballot, and Sen. Don Wooten, D-Rock Island, said it would be Saturday at the earliest before the Legislature could meet all those constitutional guidelines.

"Whatever doesn't get done by Friday doesn't get done," he said. The Legislature's schedule this week tentatively calls for lawmakers to quit work Friday and return next week.

Meanwhile, Patrick Quinn, Coalition for Political Honesty head, said Monday's mail lifted to more than the required 252,000 petition signatures his group needs for its House-slashing drive.

Cuban refugees seized

Federal authorities Monday seized three vessels in the "Freedom Flo-tilla" ferrying thousands of refugees from Cuba while the Coast Guard found at least 14 small boats capsized in the wake of a furious weekend storm.

One of the captains whose shrimp boat was seized in Key West said he grossed over $170,000 on Sunday, bringing in 260 refugees, including a mother who gave birth during the voyage.

Bombings kill three in Tehran

A wave of bombings killed at least three persons in Tehran on Monday and Iran's police chief blamed the blasts on "U.S. agents." The occupied U.S. Embassy came under gunfire three times overnight from "anti-revolutionary elements" in passing cars and militants inside the embassy said revolution guards returned the fire, Tehran radio reported.

Cronkite considered as candidate

Independent presidential candidate John Anderson is considering CBS anchorman Walter Cronkite as a running mate, and Cronkite, if asked, would accept, The New Republic Magazine reported Monday.

"I'd be so honored to be asked, I wouldn't turn it down," Cronkite is quoted as saying in an interview with Morton M. Kondracke, the magazine's executive editor.

Taxi firms say local fares are not exorbitant

by Jerry Fallstrom

The rates charged by local taxi firms for rides between Charleston and Mattoon are not exorbitant considering the impact of higher costs, according to firm officials.

Larry Kuhl, who owns Yellow Cab at 725 Monroe, Charleston, said his firm charges $8 for one or two people for a ride from Charleston to Mattoon. Each person more than two costs an additional $2 per person, he said.

"I've heard complaints that we are making a killing," Kuhl said. "It's just not true. People don't realize that we have costs to meet."

Kuhl said of the $8 fare, 40 percent, or $3.20, goes to the driver as wages. Another $1.80 goes for gasoline. The additional $3 is eaten up by such costs as tires, maintenance, wages for dispatchers and building costs. That leaves about $1 for company profit, Kuhl said.

"It's very easy to say we are making a lot of money. But if they were on this side, they would see that is just not the case."

Cathy Gonzalez, a dispatcher for Checker Top Taxis, 1904 Broadway in Mattoon, said Mattoon to Charleston fares are $8 for one or two and $4 for each additional person.

Gonzalez said most of Checker Top's student business is done during breaks, but they get some fares going from the train station to Eastern every week.

"I don't think our fares are unfair. We have to pay for the driver, gasoline and wear and tear on the cars," she said.

Gonzalez would not estimate the profit Checker Top makes on fares from Mattoon to Charleston.

Gonzalez said she did not know if the proposed Panther Transit service between Charleston and Mattoon would hurt Checker Top's business.

The Panther Transit service would begin in the spring of 1981 if implemented. Kuhl said of the proposed service, "It's gonna hurt."

"We lost $271 last year. That means we were in the red."

Kuhl said business has fallen off considerably in the last year, and he attributed that loss to a price increase and also to the senior citizens' bus.

"Our last price increase was in June 1979, and I think that has hurt our business. Senior citizens were a large part of our business, but now they can ride anywhere for 25 cents. I don't blame them. I'd probably do it too."

Yellow Cab charges a flat rate of $2.50 for fares anywhere in Charleston.

Frank Clinton, president of the Charleston Chamber of Commerce, said he has not heard any complaints about taxi fares.

"We've had no calls whatsoever about high taxi fares. I don't think taxicabs were designed for intercity travel. I don't think the fares are out of line.

"If they were too high, some other company would come in here and undercut them. I'd say that I would be understanding of their (the cab companies) positions."

Kuhl said he now uses gas-guzzling 8-cylinder cars in his fleet of taxis, but he would like to buy smaller cars.

"I have to pay these big cars off before I can think about buying some small cars, but that's what I want to do.

"If I do get smaller cars, that could have an impact on fares," he said.

BOG representative Grant stresses job importance

(Editor's note: This is the second in a series outlining the role of incumbent student government executives and the goals of those elected in the spring elections.)

by Laura Henry

According to John Grant, current student body Board of Governors representative, his office is important because "it makes us (Eastern) a visible entity to the board which makes them more responsible."

The Board of Governors is a body made up of nine voting members appointed by the governor of Illinois, plus an executive director, a secretary, five university presidents of Illinois state schools and five student representatives, including Grant.

The newly elected BOG representative, Terry Teele, said the BOG is most important in distributing state funds to schools.

"There is a big battle between public and private schools when it comes to money decisions. It is important for (Eastern) President Daniel E. Marvin and the BOG representative to be present so our views can be heard," Teele said.

Before attending the BOG's monthly meeting, the representative must be prepared, Grant said.

"Before I attend our next meeting, I read a series of followups on the previous month's meeting. What I look for are items that concern Eastern. After I read over the report, President Marvin and I meet and review Eastern's report to the board a few days before the meeting. I also share with the Student Senate all items before taking them to the board, highlighting what concerns the students," said Grant.

A BOG representative does not have an actual vote on any action, but can express the views of his school, Grant said.

"We have no vote, but can introduce important concepts to the board and give them some of our ideas. We do have a say about things, and can speak out. I'd like to think that our opinions are considered," Grant said.

Failed rescue mission compounds problems

President Carter was under pressure to make a decision, one that will now compound problems.

Something had to be done. Diplomatic negotiations between the United States and Iran have dragged on since the militants took control of the embassy on Nov. 4.

Economic sanctions by United States, the freezing of Iranian deposits and withdrawal of trade, did not ease the crisis.

Iran's internal political structure under the rule of Ayatollah Khomeini is still highly unstable. Factions of radicals and leftists are trying to compete with hard line Islamic leadership on the future course of Iran. The oil dependent economy has been cut to gain support from Western European nations.

Under the surface of this diplomacy, the Carter administration was planning the last resorts, some final options to deal with the Iranians.

One of those options, the late night rescue mission that was aborted in the desert, came to light Thursday.

Military threats became a reality. The military action has also surfaced harsh criticism of the handling of the Iranian situation.

What else could have Carter played to get pressure applied on the Iranian government? A military blockade of ports would have received the support of most of the Western allies and silenced critics at home. It was the next step in the sanction ladder.

But that had been advocated for a long time. Iran may have used a northern route to bypass the blockade in order to gain time to capitalize on propaganda condemning an act of war by the United States.

But that is the charge now. Khomeini's government will use the ill-fated mission to try to rally its people against the United States in the world community, to advance their cause and to strengthen their hold on the hostages. That is something the mission was supposed to stop if it would have been successful.

Carter's foreign policy has now hit a low point on the world relations. He lobbied intensively with European allies to boycott Iran. Now he quickly turns back to a unilateral stance which will alienate many world leaders.

Now compounding Carter's problems will be the replacement of Secretary of State Cyrus Vance, who resigned over foreign policy differences. Vance, a highly respected diplomat, will be tough to replace. He gave the Carter administration some sort of stability and experience in world negotiations.

After the initial shock of the attempted raid is over, Carter will have to readjust his thinking to a new situation, a more complex one. The hostages, by several accounts, will be moved around Tehran, making military actions in the future more difficult.

And with more barriers to the negotiations for the freedom of the hostages, the tougher it will be to get a workable solution.

Carter tried what he felt was the right move to end the crisis. We can't fault him for that.

But we can say he has put upon himself in a more complex situation, one that detracts from the gains earlier sanctions had made.

It's tough to eat on an off-campus budget

"Don't worry Mom, I'm eating right!"

Can there be anything that is further from the truth for the average, American off-campus college student?

I was struck by this thought the other night when I was rummaging through the aisles of the IGA looking for Oreos and sour cream and onion potato chips at 2 a.m.

Is there a worse feeling than going home after a night on the town with a bad case of the munchies and not having any food in the house, and with no money to buy anything?

That is why Snappy's (may it rest in peace) was so terrific. I have never tasted anything as good as a Snappy burger at 2 a.m. I feel sorry for all younger students who never got the opportunity to sample that magnificent cuisine. They weren't TOO good, were they?

Brad

Remember that? You could easily eat six of those things in five minutes and for about $1.50 to completely satisfy your hunger urges.

I guess I'm a typical off-campus student. My eating habits are at best poor. Of course, I never eat breakfast. There is nothing, repeat nothing, that is good enough for breakfast that is worth missing an extra fifteen minutes of sleep.

So, with classes and work, I eat lunch around 2 in the afternoon, and I'm starving.

I can tell you the price of each item on the menu at every fast-food place in Charleston, because I eat out...A LOT! Mac's, Wendy's, Hardee's, you name it, I've tried it.

So, with enough grease in me to lubricate my car, my next meal comes usually sometime around 6 p.m. when I try to get something, anything of nutritional value. Milk, bread, vegetables, something to eat before coming back to work.

Then, of course the final meal of the day comes in the wee hours of the morning after another edition of the Eastern News has been put out.

A trip to IGA is not an uncommon experience for me, to round up a frozen pizza, Doritos, or another student favorite, a box of Kraft Macaroni and Cheese.

Mix in a number of soft drinks and candy bars in an average day, along with some hot dogs, and you have a pretty basic college student diet. And they say we are the best fed generation in history. Sure we are.

Although I'm probably lucky to be alive with a diet like that, I still feel sorry for all persons who live in a dorm, and have their meals prepared for them. That's no fun.

I mean, you haven't lived until you've tried to manage your money between paychecks and have had to survive on two cans of soup, a piece of stale bread, and a quart of milk. THAT takes imagination!

Oh, well, I guess I'll survive. Someday I'll look back and wonder how I ever made it.

It's about time for a Ding-Dong. Or will it be a TV dinner today?

Letters to the editor

Bonnie & Bill

Editor,

I would like to take this opportunity to thank Bill Houlihan and Bonnie Bijak for the commendable job that they have done for student government this year.

Bill and Bonnie, being the student body president and executive vice president respectively, have devoted well over the expected necessary time for their offices. Between these two people we have much to be thankful for. The list is long, but such services as the improved health service, mass transit system and legal service are just a few of the accomplishments that Bill and Bonnie have to be proud of.

So, instead of always suggesting what student government can do for us, we should recognize what has been done for us.

To Bill and Bonnie I give my thanks.

"Great" program

Editor,

All I'd like to know is: whatever happened to the so-called "great" intramural program here at Eastern?

Eastern boasts about its high percentage of participants and its variety of activities offered, but perhaps they should re-evaluate each individual sport and choose those that are worthy of the effort involved instead of offering such a multitude of sports resulting in a loss of organization and quality.

Right now, we're nearing the close of the softball season. A few questions come to my mind: Why do they schedule games one hour apart and then play by a 1 1/2 hour time limit? What are we supposed to do when the umpire walks out in the middle of the game? (Thanks to Bob Mastny, we were able to finish...but will he get paid for his help?)

And finally, why do they schedule a game at 6 p.m. when it gets dark at 6:45? All of these items pertained to our game last Thursday. We only played 3 innings because we never got started until 6:30 p.m. and with finals nearing (and we all know what that means...), I can't help but feel that it was a waste of time to play at all.

I realize that it's too late to see any changes this year, but hopefully when we return in the fall, the entire program will have been re-evaluated and improved so that we can all enjoy the benefits of intramurals!

Air Force conductor to lead jazz band Conducted by the commander of the Chanute Air Force Band, Eastern's Jazz Band II will present a concert at 8 p.m. Thursday in Dvorak Concert Hall. Capt. Ken Green said featured numbers of the concert will be sung by three guest soloists. Connie Williams, a graduate student, will sing "At Green said. The band has played previously at Celebration '80 and at Roc's Lounge, he said. Green, a graduate student at Eastern, will receive his master's degree in conducting in May. He is on temporary duty at Chanute Air Force Base in Rantoul while completing his studies at Eastern. Green will conduct and perform at the concert. A jazz pianist, Green has performed with several professional jazz ensembles and has appeared on the Johnny Carson Show. The concert is free to both Eastern students and the public.

Rush signup set for Union

Sorority and fraternity rush signups for fall will be held from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. Tuesday in the University Union Walkway, Ann Cavanagh, assistant director of student activities, said. The cost for rush is $3 and covers all expenses such as the rush booklet, summer correspondence and all activities beginning in the fall, Cavanagh said. Those who will be freshmen in the fall will have to sign up through the mail, Cavanagh said, and they then will receive correspondence. Rush begins Saturday, Aug. 23 with

"It's Greek to Me," a program for rushees and their parents to learn about the Greek system, she said. Open houses for sororities will continue throughout the week in August and will end with pledge night Sept. 3, she said. Fraternity open houses will begin Sept. 9 and pledge night will be Sept. 12. Anyone unable to sign up for rush on Tuesday can sign up any time before the end of school in the Student Activities Office, Cavanagh said.

Students to rate instructors' performance soon

by Marc LeSage

With the semester coming to a close, it's time for Eastern students to grade their instructors, a process which several department chairmen consider useful.

"Some instructors have good attitudes toward the evaluations and benefit from them. Others resent them and only do it because they have to," Floyd Merritt, chairman of the speech department, said.

Current faculty contracts state that "at least once each academic year each employee who teaches a course or other instruction activities should have his or her teaching effectiveness evaluated by the students," Lana Hofer, coordinator of testing at Eastern, said.

An instructor can use the Purdue Cafeteria Evaluation System, the department form or a form designed by the individual teacher, Carol Elder, president of Eastern's chapter of the American Federation of Teachers, said.

Last semester 600 classes used the Purdue System, Hofer said.

She said if a department uses the Purdue System, the instructor can pick a maximum of 31 evaluation questions from a "menu" of 203 in the evaluation catalog.

With the Purdue System, there are nine questions that must be on the evaluations, Hofer added. All Board of Governors schools including Eastern are required to have teacher evaluations.

"But they are being used the wrong way," Hofer said. They should be used as feedback for instructors to make their teaching more effective, not as a basis for faculty rewards.

"The Purdue System was designed to be used as an improvement device for the instructor and for faculty development, not as an administrative tool used for promotion and tenure," she said.

However, Elder said the evaluations are very worthwhile.

"Generally, student evaluations weigh very heavily towards tenure and salary recommendations," she added.

The evaluations do not ordinarily have any surprises, James Quivey, English department chairman, said. "Teachers usually know how they're coming off to a class before the evaluations."

Arthur Hoffman, chairman of the accountancy, data processing and finance department said, "Evaluations for the faculty members for the first few years are very useful. After a period of time the evaluations improve."

But some of the questions are ambiguous and some of the students are careless in completing them, Hoffman said.

The Purdue System has a release form. If the form is signed by the instructor, the evaluations are given to the Student Senate, Hofer said.

Bill Houlihan, student body president, said, "teacher evaluations are available to students at the student government office."

Charlie Lebkuecher, a junior history major said, "students think evaluations are worthless. I think the questions are constructive but I do not feel that faculty members take enough interest in them."

Ringenberg, Leyden honored by faculty awards

by Sue Ann Rentfrow

Lawrence Ringenberg and Michael Leyden were recently announced as the recipients of Eastern's Distinguished Faculty Awards, Bill Weiler, chairman of the selection committee, said.

These men will be awarded a check for $500 and a letter of commendation from President Daniel E. Marvin and the Faculty Senate at commencement, Weiler said. They were chosen by a selection committee consisting of three faculty members, one alumnus and one student.

Ringenberg has been at Eastern for 24 years. He is a member of the math department where he has served as chairman. He has also been dean of the College of Arts and Sciences since its creation, as well as serving one year as acting vice president for academic affairs.

Weiler said Leyden is recognized nationally as an influential science educator. He has held several science teacher in-service workshops that have taken him to Atlanta, New York City, Los Angeles and many other American and Canadian cities.

Leyden co-authored a seventh grade science textbook which is used in the United States and Canada, Weiler said. He has co-authored another book on junior high and middle school science methods soon to be published, Weiler added.

In a separate awards ceremony April 24, Cynthia J. Rahn, specialist in international operations for the Internal Revenue Service, received Eastern's School of Business Distinguished Alumni Award for 1980.

James Giffin of the management-marketing department said the award is to recognize successful graduates who have done outstanding work in their field. The award has been given since 1970, and Rahn is the first woman to receive it.

Rahn, a native of Mt. Morris, is a 1972 graduate of Eastern. After graduating, she began employment with the IRS as a revenue agent in Chicago. She received her certified public accountant certificate in September 1974, Giffin said.

Rahn has taught international operations classes for revenue agents in New York, Atlanta and Chicago. In 1979 she became a member of the Accountancy Advisory Committee for the School of Business at Eastern, Giffin added.

"I've got a good chance," he said. "As things are now I'm supposed to get drafted this year. That's what they (scouts) tell me."

Warring's thought are ably backed up by his stats. A consensus 1978 All-American, Warring caught 59 passes for 980 yards and 14 touchdowns. In 1979 during his senior year, he nabbed 47 passes for 548 yards and eight touchdowns.

A key part of the Panthers' success in 1978 and 1979, quarterback Steve Turk has also been in touch with Dallas, Denver, New England and Seattle.

Turk hit on 160 of 294 pass attempts in 11 games for 2,423 yards in leading the Panthers to the NCAA Division II championship. During his junior year, he averaged 220.3 yards per game through the air and threw for 25 touchdowns, while throwing just 20 interceptions.

Turk said the best indication of the interest teams have shown is they have asked him where they can get in touch with him.

"I've been contacted by some teams," he said. "They asked where I'll be so they can contact me if I'm drafted. But they've made no mention of tryout camp or rookie or otherwise."

Offensive lineman Dave Miner is yet another Panther gridder who has been contacted by several pro teams. Miner has been contacted by representatives from the Seattle Seahawks, Oakland Raiders and Dallas Cowboys.

Gridder careers hinge on NFL draft

by Matt Davidson

Record-breaking running back Poke Cobb and five other Eastern football players may find out if their careers will continue when the National Football League draft is held Tuesday and Wednesday.

It has been reported that Cobb will sign with a Canadian football league team. He is expected to come to terms with the Winnipeg club soon.

Cobb, who set the all-time NCAA Division II rushing record of 5,042 yards, was termed by Panther coach Darrell Mudra to be the best pro prospect.

"I honestly don't have any insight," Mudra said. "I think Cobb is probably the best prospect, but he's expected to sign with Canada. But I suppose that (Tom) Pettigrew, (Jack) Lafferty, (Steve) Turk and James (Warring) have a good chance. I'd have to include Miner, too."

The first record Cobb broke in 1979 was Illinois Benedictine's Ken Carruthers' all-time Illinois collegiate rushing record of 3,806 yards.

Poke Cobb

James Warring

He also owns the record for 100-yard rushing games. Cobb achieved that mark by surpassing Michigan Tech's Futures lie in NFL?

Jim Van Wagner's record of 25 games. His 5,042 career yards broke Panhandle State's Jerry Linton's Division II national rushing record of 4,839 yards.

Regardless of division, Cobb now ranks fifth behind Pittsburgh's Tom Dorsett, Southern California's Charles White, Randolph-Macon's Howard Stevens and Ohio State's Archie Griffin for all-time collegiate rushing.

Pettigrew, an offensive tackle, has been contacted by the Dallas Cowboys and Los Angeles Rams on numerous occasions.

"I've had contacts with Dallas and Los Angeles most specifically the last few weeks," Pettigrew said. "I've had letters from (Tom) Landry and an offensive line coach from Los Angeles."

Pettigrew said that no team has told him specifically that he will be drafted.

"They never really come out and tell you that," he said. "They don't want to disclose their plans because there is a lot of politics involved."

Wide receiver James Warring, an All-American in 1978, thinks he has a chance to get drafted.

Johnson's fourth leads Eastern at Drake Relays

DES MOINES, Iowa — Bob Johnson and the 4 x 400-meter relay team's fourth place finishes accounted for the Eastern placers in the annual Drake Relays Friday and Saturday.

Johnson, the defending NCAA Division II national champion 110-meter hurdler, placed fourth in the open division in the 110-meter hurdles with a time of 14.07. He qualified for the finals by running a 14.20 in the preliminaries.

His slow qualifying time put him on the outside lane, which hindered his performance somewhat, track coach Neil Moore said.

"He had what is considered a slow qualifying time, so he was stuck on the outside."

Moore said Johnson, who was competing in only his second meet this season, turned in an outstanding performance.

"He's still only about 90 percent. When he gets 100 percent, look out," Moore said.

Members of the 4 x 400 relay team and their approximate splits are Clayton Branch (49.6), Joe Snyder (49.6), Merrill Kaney (49.0), and Mpaka Fyneface (48.0). The quartet compiled a fourth place finish in 3:15.6 in the finals.

Men netters thumped twice after easy victory

by Jill Anderson

After demolishing Illinois Wesleyan on Friday, Eastern's men's tennis team was soundly defeated by Augustana and Northern Iowa Saturday.

Traveling to Bloomington, the netters defeated Wesleyan 8-1.

"Wesleyan was a good workout for the team," Coach Carl Sexton said. "It was a good warmup for our matches on Saturday."

Brad Patterson pulled out a close three setter at No. 1 7-5, 2-6, 6-4. At No. 2, Rick Hayden won in straight sets 6-0, 6-3.

Dave Branding, playing at No. 3, suffered the team's only defeat with scores of 6-7, 6-3, 4-6.

E.J. Karsten won in straight sets 6-3, 6-3.

After winning the first set 6-0, Bruce Perrin at No. 5 eventually pulled out the match 4-6, 6-2. Tim Buwick won at No. 6, 6-3, 6-4.

In doubles action, the Panthers did not drop a set in sweeping all three positions.

The netters did not have such good luck Saturday at Rock Island, losing 8-1 to Augustana and 9-0 to Northern Iowa.

"I felt that the team was emotionally ready to play, but it turned out to be our toughest matches of the season," Sexton said.

Against Augustana, Buwick registered the team's only win at No. 6 singles 6-1, 6-0.

"Looking at Tim's play, I'd say this was his best weekend of the season," Sexton said.

Patterson, Branding and Karsten all were defeated in close three-set matches. Hayden and Perrin lost in straight sets.

Sexton said he did not expect his team to be down 5-1 after the singles matches. Consequently, even winning all the doubles matches would not have pulled out the meet for Eastern.

Eastern's matches with Northern Iowa did not go much better, with Eastern not winning a match.

Hayden, Perrin and Buwick bowed in tough three-set matches, and everyone else lost in straight sets.

"We should have pulled out some of those three setters. We shouldn't have lost all the singles matches."

Eastern was also defeated in all its doubles matches. The team of Buwick and Jon Tuft was the only one to extend Iowa to three sets 7-6, 2-6, 4-6.
